SENIOR PHONE PATROL

“We care about our senior citizens!”

What is the Phone Patrol?

Seniors are the most often home-bound people. They may have assorted physical and/or mental issues and have nobody in the immediate area who can check the well-being of these seniors on a daily basis.

Senior phone patrol is a group of volunteers who make phone contact with seniors who participate in the program. A short “how are you” type of conversation takes place, the volunteer notes the conversation and makes a quick determination if the senior is okay. As time passes, the caller and the participant grow to be phone friends, making the daily call more important to both. When a call is not answered, the caller will call back within several minutes. If there is no answer after the third call, a listed friend of responsible party is called and if no contact is made at all, the Volunteer Coordinator and/or Police Officer is sent to the participant’s residence to make physical contact with the participant.
